

GOLDEN WEST

The Golden West loaves are flavored with honey, studded with dried fruits and nuts, spiced with turmeric, and truffled with chocolate chunks, playing on uniquely Californian contrasts: soft and hard, sweet and subtle, provocative and mellow. The dough is enriched with some butter and sugar, and sometimes milk, to create softer, airier variations of classic Viennese breads. The Golden West family also includes the LaFayette, BREADBAR's luscious version of the sandwich loaf.